

The student must submit the script in two parts, if using any script other than entirely self-written. Remember, students must give credit for any work used by another author.

- A typewritten script and
- A scanned, photocopied or screenshot of the original source(s) with all added words inserted in the appropriate places.

Typewritten version: (If entirely self-written, only typed version is required.)

1. The typewritten script should be typed exactly as it is going to be presented.
2. All added words, not in the original source, must be underlined.

Scanned/Photocopied version:

1. Scan/photocopy every original source page which includes words used in the interpretive piece. (The original source(s) is the book, play, anthology, etc. from which the piece is taken.)
2. Scan/photocopy the title page of the original source(s).
3. Scan/photocopy the copyright page with the publication date of the original source(s).
4. Highlight all original source words that are used in the script. Do not cross out any words.
5. Insert the introduction and any added words in the appropriate spot in the script.
6. Arrange the pages in the order they will be presented.
7. Screenshots - Students who have secured their literary piece from an internet site must create a computer screenshot of the publication date. In addition, one page should include words from their piece to show the internet source of the piece. The screenshot should include any sidebars, headings, etc., that are a part of the computer screen, including the URL of the website. The remaining screenshots only need to contain the portions of the text used. The screenshots will be compiled in exactly the same way the scanned/photocopied pages are to be compiled. Title and publication information is still required.

Note - The goal is to submit two complete copies. One is typed. The other is scanned/photocopied from the original source with all added words inserted, creating a second complete script. The two scripts will read exactly the same.

If for some reason the competitor is unable to comply with the script submission requirements, or the competitor is missing some required element, a brief explanation should be attached to the Script Submission Form for consideration by tournament administration.

Note regarding reproductions of copyright materials: The Fair Use Doctrine contained in the Copyright Act gives students permission to use or reproduce portions of a copyrighted work if the work is used as part of a student's education. Therefore, the Fair Use Doctrine allows for the reproduction of portions of a copyrighted work for script submissions. However, the Fair Use Doctrine is broader than the Stoa Publication Guidelines. Please be sure your source complies with Stoa Publication Guidelines.
